jessica whyte, and ashley woodward

Parrhesia is pleased to announce the publication of Issue 23, with feature essays by Alain Badiou, Jean-François Lyotard, Vittorio Morfino, and Bernard Stiegler—all published here in English for the first time.

We also want to use this occasion to announce that Jessica Whyte and Jason E. Smith have joined the journal's editorial board. This happy news comes after last year's departure of Parrhesia's founding editor Alex Murray, and at a time when Jon Roffe is moving his focus to the Groundworks book series that Roffe, Arne De Boever, Ashley Woodward, and Bill Ross are preparing for Rowman & Littlefield International.

Parrhesia remains as committed as ever to publishing what we consider to be important work in contemporary critical philosophy, and we welcome submissions for all sections of the journal.
